

Hall of Fame Inductees

The Farm Science Review Hall of Fame will welcome its 23rd class of inductees at the Vice President's Luncheon on September 18. Jim Beuerlein, Michael Gahn and Bobby Moser have been selected for induction because of their contributions to the success of the Farm Science Review.

▶ Jim Beuerlein

Jim served on the Farm Science Review Program & Policy Committee, was a professor, researcher and State Extension leader, and shared his expertise in small grain production, particularly soybeans. Jim was very influential in the move to narrow row soybean production. He has been recognized statewide and nationally as a leader in soybean production.

▶ Mike Gahn

As a representative of DuPont Pioneer, Mike developed a relationship with the Review many years ago, recognizing the need for seed from the Farm Science Review staff. Mike formed a partnership and provided in-kind donations for many years to the Review. DuPont Pioneer's gifts have led to many other seed companies participating with similar programs. Mike is a great friend of the Farm Science Review and understands the significance of donating to universities.

▶ Bobby Moser

As Vice President and Dean of the College of Food, Agricultural, and Environmental Sciences at The Ohio State University, the Farm Science Review responds directly to Bobby's office. His support over the past 20 years has been steadfast and true, as he recognizes that the Farm Science Review is a leader in the farm show industry. Moser shares a passion for bringing the latest knowledge and technology to the farmers of Ohio and surrounding region.
